NEW PUBLICATION

The Ontario Government Libraries' Council announces the availability of its latest publication:

COMPUTER APPLICATIONS IN ONTARIO GOVERNMENT LIBRARIES: ESSAYS IN MEMORY OF DOUGLAS A. ARMSTRONG

This collection of eight essays, edited by Brian H. Morrison, was commissioned by the Council as a tribute to Douglas Armstrong, Head Librarian at the Ontario Ministry of Labour, who was killed in a traffic accident in December of 1983.

The theme of the collection is the development and/or application of computerized systems by several Ontario Government libraries. Included are articles dealing with the development of the ONTERIS system by the Ministry of Education, the development of the Geac on-line catalogue at the Ontario Legislative Library, the installation of UTLAS at the Ministries of Labour and Community and Social Services, the use of the BASIS private file system at the Ministry of Labour and the application of a microcomputer using dBasell in the library of the Ontario Police Commission.

Each article has been written by the librarians directly involved with each system. They have outlined the history and development of each system, why it was chosen in their particular library situation, how the library gained management approval for the particular system and the operating experiences - pro and con - since the particular was installed. The aim of each article is to provide some practical insights that may be helpful to other librarians in a special library setting who are considering the acquisition of automated systems.

The contributors are: Marian Dworaczek (Treasury and Economics), Dolly Lyn (Labour), Clare Lyons (Ontario Labour Relations Board), Alison Macintosh (UTLAS, Inc.), J. Mark Merryweather (Ontario Police Commission), Lynn Morgan (Ontario Legislative Library), Ilze Purmalis (Ministry of Education), Pamela Stoksik (Ontario Legislative Library), and Sandra Walsh (Community and Social Services).

There are two additional articles in the collection. One looks at "Education For Automation" and was written by Mavis Cariou, Faculty of Library and Information Science at the University of Toronto. Dr. Cariou surveys the various ways in which librarians can become computer literate - formal courses either full-time or part-time provided by universities or community colleges in Ontario, special workshops and seminars and informal networking with other librarians and online users' groups.

The concluding article, by Brian H. Morrison, is an overview of the history and work of the Ontario Government Libraries' (formerly Librarians') Council from its inception in 1970 to date. The article looks at the reasons for the creation of the Council and the work it has done over the past fourteen years. This is the first historical article on the Council to appear in print.

The Preface to this collection is by R. Brian Land, the Director of the Ontario Legislative Library and current chairman of the Ontario Government Libraries' Council.

The Council hopes that this collection will provide useful information on the achievements of Ontario Government libraries in the field of computerized systems. These libraries are actively involved with the development and implementation of automated systems and their experiences provide valuable information for modern special libraries.

LIBRARY LAYOUT

In May, the Ministry Library rearranged the location of its book and periodical shelves. A new room containing our periodical backfiles was opened. The book and government documents shelves were rearranged to allow for more open floor space. Users should find this new open layout more comfortable. A map showing the layout of the Library is attached.

LIBRARY SERVICE BROCHURE

A new brochure giving information on the Library's collections and services is being prepared and should be ready in September. Copies will be sent to subscribers to the Library Bulletins.

RETIREMENT OF JEAN COLLINS-WILLIAMS

Dr. Jean Collins-Williams, Head of Information Service, and, for many years, the Occupational Health and Safety librarian, retired from the Ministry Library on September 25th. Jean was with the Ontario Public Service for fifteen years, beginning her career at the Ministry of Health. She was in charge of their occupational and environmental health collection and accompanied this collection to the Ministry of Labour library in 1977 when the Ministry of Labour assumed responsibility for workplace health and safety legislation.

Jean's wealth of knowledge in the subject area combined with her skills as a librarian were appreciated by the many users of the occupational health and safety collection. In recent years, she was an enthusiastic promoter of computerization in the Ministry Library and the development of MOLINDEX and the OLRB, ESA and OHRC decisions databases owe much to her energy and interest.

Jean's retirement from the library will be regretted by her colleagues and friends who benefitted from her expertise. But we know she has plans to keep busy with many "post-retirement" activities. And we wish her all the best in the busy years that lie ahead.

USER INTEREST PROFILES

FOR

MINISTRY OF LABOUR LIBRARY USERS

To enable our reference librarians to be up-to-date on current areas of research in the Ministry, library users are currently being asked to complete User Interest Profiles providing details to the reference staff on short and long term research projects as well as ongoing subject areas of interest. This will enable our staff to provide Ministry users with current documentation in printed and electronic form on a regular basis.

In addition to referring monographs, journal articles, conference proceedings and other printed material to you, we will, if appropriate to your research interests, arrange for SDI (Selective Dissemination of Information) profiles from the various online information retrieval systems to which we have access and from MOLINDEX, the library's own database. This will automatically provide you with a monthly or quarterly update on newly published literature in subject areas of current interest.

The User Interest Profile form has been mailed to Ministry users who are on our mailing lists for the Library Bulletins. If you have not received a profile and would like to take advantage of this service, please call the Library at 965-1641 and we will send you a copy.

Please note that this service is for Ministry employees only.
